

Artists Jonathan Mandell and Rhonda Garland: "Between The Lines"

by Rhonda Garland
Owner, Silverman Gallery

"And now for something completely different . . ."
to borrow a catchphrase from Monty Python. The Silverman Gallery is stepping out from its traditional Bucks County faire to showcase the wonderful mosaics of Jonathan Mandell and the abstract work of yours truly!

Opening on April 27th and continuing through May 26th 2019, the Silverman Gallery presents "Between the Lines: Work by Jonathan Mandell and Rhonda Garland. Lines are the starting point for both artists' works and both artists are inspired by vivid color combinations and the way they resonate and play off of each other.

I use freely drawn and painted lines, flourishes derived from my background in calligraphy which give my paint places to go. Mandell uses grout lines as an extension of his original drawings providing connections between his meticulously cut pieces of re-purposed blown glass tile and semi-precious stones.

My paintings in acrylic and watercolor and ink done on paper, canvas and board will be featured for the first time in the Silverman Gallery. Previously, I have shown my work in Houston, Philadelphia, New Hope, Lambertville, Skippack Haverford and Wayne.

Found in homes, businesses and institutions throughout the country, Mandell's mosaics have been part of the gallery since 2016. His Bucks County connections go back two generations. He now sits of the board of Delaware Valley College where both his grandfather and father served as key members during decades of growth and expansion.

* This is a temporary and fun departure from what you may be used to! Please mark your calendars for Jennifer Hansen Rolli's 2019 Solo Exhibition, opening June 1st! (More news to follow in the June/July issue.) www.silvermangallery.com
