

Thinning Hair? Need Options?

Anita Polin has worked in the beauty industry for over 40 years. Education is her passion, and she has been teaching for 17 years. Anita presently travels to salons in New York, Pennsylvania, and Virginia teaching stylists about color and hair products. She finds that helping others succeed in the industry she loves is very rewarding. Her love for wigs and hair additions began when she worked for Disney World. Seeing how people change when they put something on that makes them feel beautiful started Anita thinking. She went on to take advanced training in wig work for men and women. She says, "In this industry, we change lives. I am just as excited today as I was when I first started my career. I'm always learning, sharing my knowledge, and helping people feel amazing!"

So many things today can be the cause of thinning hair. Diet, health, age, medication. The question is: what can you do about it?

First check with your doctor if this is something new that is happening. You might find that a simple adjustment in medication or a diet change can help. Hair loss can also indicate that something is wrong with your health, and checking with your doctor for early detection is a wise thing to do.

Once you've narrowed down the possible reasons for hair loss, you need some answers on what to do about it.

There are products on the market today such as scalp treatments that can help promote hair growth and strengthen your hair.

One line I can recommend is the Eufora Thickening Line. It has a shampoo, conditioner, and scalp serum that help promote hair growth. These products contain a ProAmino Cell Complex™ that stimulates the hair follicle. It prevents follicle shrinkage and anchors the hair bulb and is known for its antiseptic and antibacterial benefits. It is based in Aloe Stem Cells that promote growth and ingredients that calm and soothe any scalp irritation.

Another concern, of course, is your appearance. There are styling products, hair volumizers, and blow-drying techniques that can help those with thinning hair. Perming hair is another way to add volume and texture, and curls and waves are back in style for this fall. New natural waves can add a great new look to any style.

What if you are at the point you just need more hair to help with your everyday styling? We at Salon 360 have an option for you: hair additions. Through a free consultation, you will be able to discover your options to enhance your
